The advertisement features a background image of a two-story white house with a brown roof. Three small inset images show a hand holding a hailstone, a hand holding a snowball, and a roof with a ladder. The text is overlaid on the image in various colors and fonts, including red, yellow, and white with black outlines.

Was your home recently damaged by hail? Our sales staff has the experience to help you through the process of filing an insurance claim. The rumors are true, most of our clients receive a new roof with no out of pocket expense.

Insurance companies are willing to pay to have your home re-roofed in order to avoid further deterioration to the structure of your house and its contents. Wind and hail are the standard causes of damage to roofing which are covered under most insurance policies.

The process begins with identifying damage to your shingles and modified roofing surfaces. Once hail or wind damage is noted by either the home owner or a roofing contractor such as, Quinta Contractors, LLC, the insurance company should be contacted to initiate the claim.

A claim will be opened and the insurance provider will schedule a time for a their qualified adjuster to inspect the home for roof and collateral damages. The adjuster will determine the extent of the damages sustained and issue paperwork to the homeowner. The paperwork states the extent of the damages covered in the insurance policy and provides an estimate for the fair market value of these repairs.

Choosing a contractor to perform these repairs is left to the sole discretion of the home owner. Quinta Contractors, LLC is a licensed Home Improvement Contractor in Tennessee and Mississippi. One advantage to our services is that we are full service remodelers. We are regularly involved in carpentry, drywall, plumbing, electrical, and HVAC as well as roofing. We bring the ability to see the “big picture” concerning the storm damages to your home.

Our extensive experience in all fields of remodeling lends to our expertise and puts us heads above the competition. The repairs will be made by skilled and seasoned personnel. You have the added advantage of our workmanship warranty to back up the installation. At Quinta Contractors, LLC we are truly committed to customer satisfaction. We look forward to providing prompt, professional, and courteous service to restore your home to its original or better condition than prior to the storm.
